Celebration of Suzuki Graduations

Dr. Suzuki required of himself to look at the world from the unique view point of a young child. This is one of the things that made him such an outstanding teacher and an inspirational, world-changing philosopher. In 1951 he listened to 195 tapes made by students in Japan, introducing the graduation process to children all over the world.

Suzuki students practise with great care as they prepare to make a recording of their graduation piece with which they and their teacher are happy. Finally the recording is made followed by another teacher listening carefully to it. The student then receives a report which commends the fine work and gives encouraging suggestions for areas where further improvement can take place.

The Suzuki graduation system is a unique system designed to build students' confidence and to encourage them to reach the highest possible playing standard. Every student succeeds! It just remains for a celebration to take place – and that is what today is all about.

It is a celebration of what has already been achieved. Their hard work and the support and encouragement of their teachers and parents complete the Suzuki triangle. What a wonderful achievement. Thank you all for sharing with us the gift of music.
